Dear Friends,

Welcome to June! The month when we celebrate the longest day and hopefully some dry and sunny weather! It is a time when many of our plants are in full colour, and we celebrate the wonder of creation as new fruits, vegetables and berries begin to develop.

The wonder of the seasons, and the beauty of creation and new life is something many of us enjoy, but it is also something we need to cherish as we consider the environmental impact of our activities and hopefully consider what we can do individually and collectively to reduce our impact on the planet.

This June our churches in the East of Eden will be looking at the book of Genesis – the 1st book of the Bible and a book that starts with words many of us have heard many times before and know so well : “In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth .....And God saw everything that he had made and indeed it was very good.”

The first chapter of Genesis is, among other things, a reminder of the variety and bounty of what we have been given, and importantly our responsibility to both care for it and share it. However, there is much more to the book of Genesis! It includes the stories of Noah, Abraham, Jacob and Joseph (of technicolour dream coat fame). The stories of these well-known characters span hundreds of years, yet they were by no means saints – they had their flaws like we all do. What links all these wonderful, colourful characters together is their beneficial relationship with God.

I hope that this month brings us all joy as we delight in beauty that surrounds us, and also that you will have a chance to come along to the Sunday services and enjoy exploring the first book of the Bible.

Julie Barrett.
Lay Reader.

Blencarn

Blencarn's first recorded spelling was the same as now, in 1159. Blen is Old Welsh blean, 'hilltop' (as is cairn) "a heap of stones" cairn, so at its start c.2,0000 years ago it had a cairn/buriel? waymark?) on its long ridge.

In time the long low ridge was settled as a village now its narrow green, nicely placed to see raiders coming.

By 1790 it had 24 heads of families of the lord of the manor, and 11 more as tenants of the Adertons (kin to the Pattensons). Those bound to the lord of the manor had to do his ploughing, mowing, raking hay, and reaping, free, as part of their rent. In 1792 their lord died and his Will ordered that all 35 farms be converted to freehold free of charge to the sitting tenants.

The Common of Culgaith was divided up into fields in 1773, and 100 acres allotted to the School at Blencarn Gate (now called Howrigg) erected in 1775, to pay for its masters, he, to teach, free, any child from Culgaith or Blencarn. The path to it across the wild wet moor from Culgaith is still there, as is the path from Blencarn. In 1794, the 100 acres were let for £42 pa, which paid the School's costs and salary. Few children went, in practice; the farmers kept them at work at home.

In 1870, the Education Act was passed requiring all children to go to school. In 1878, Blencarn's opened, in the village. In its wall was the letter box (by 1901) cleared daily at 4.30. Blencarn had a grocer, joiner, blacksmith, builder, tool maker and carrier and 11 farmers in 1901.

Thank you to Jeremy Godwin for his research.
